HEIRLOOM INVITATION GUIDE

ORDERING PROCESS & TIMELINE

Step 1: Curating your Suite

Browse through our heirloom invitations to select the printing method that best suits your aesthetic and your celebration. Then, select either a 4 piece or 2 piece suite. You will be prompted to select your quantity. If you need help making selections or don't understand some of the options or how it all works, you can book a consultation call to go over the details.

Step 2: Placing the Order

Once you place your order, you will pay the full amount of the invitations. Then, we will contact you within 3-5 business days with the forms you need to fill out for the invitations. Once we receive the content and we approve it, then the design timeline begins.

Step 3: Design + Revision

We will send you design for proofing within 7 business days of the content completion. There is one minor revision round included, conditions apply. Any additional changes will incur an additional cost, please see details in our FAQ and our Terms and Conditions. After the proof has been approved, we will send the invitations to print. Typically the invitations take 3-4 weeks for printing and additional 1-2 weeks for calligraphy and assembly, conditions apply. Then, they will be mailed to you to take to the post office afterwards.

PRINTING OPTIONS

DIGITAL PRINTING

High quality inkjet printing on 110 lb. paper. Available in bright white and off-white paper. With this printing method, we are unable to print metallic colors. When this option is selected, the return address and reply address printing on the envelopes will also be in digital printing.

LETTERPRESS PRINTING

A type of relief printing that produces a debossed impression of the design onto the paper, allowing you to feel the letters and illustrations on the paper. Letterpress uses ink as well, and is not great at white or metallic colors and is therefore unavailable to print in metallic colors. Available on our 110 lb. cotton paper in bright white, off-white, and cream. When this option is selected, the return address and reply address printing on the envelopes will also be in letterpress printing.

FOIL PRINTING

A type of relief printing, similar to letterpress, but this method uses foil, which is perfect for metallic colors. Available on our 110 lb. cotton paper in bright white, off-white, and cream. When this option is selected, the return address and reply address printing on the envelopes will also be in foil printing.

ENGRAVING

Engraving is a type of relief printing that produces a raised impression on the paper from being squeezed between two dies. This is the most traditional of the printing methods. Engraving uses ink and is perfect for flat color as well as metallic colors. Available on our 110 lb. cotton paper in bright white, off-white, and cream. When this option is selected, the return address and reply address printing on the envelopes will also be in engraved printing.
